Application for the position of Faglærer til data og it

Dear Karin Jespersen,

Planning intensive technical training and helping people put new knowledge into practice have been part of my work at MAN Truck & Bus and in Microsoft BizTalk bootcamps. EUC Syd's combination of vocational and continuing education appeals to me because I want to bring this experience to young people as well as adults. I found your vacancy on Jobindex.

In my recent software projects, I designed guided and interactive tours through the user interface using test data. Users first follow the tour, then perform the workflow independently and provide feedback through a channel within the software. I check whether users can complete the workflow independently and use their results and feedback to identify what they have understood and where explanations need improvement. I would bring the same approach to teaching: demonstrate, let learners practise, and use their feedback to refine the explanation.

At MAN Truck & Bus, I planned intensive employee training with practical exercises, coached colleagues in design patterns and code reviews, and helped align development standards across teams. I used these activities to share knowledge and discuss implementation choices with colleagues. I would bring this approach to your teaching team: making technical decisions understandable and developing practical learning activities together. As a youth table tennis coach, and through earlier experience guiding apprentices after my own apprenticeship, I also have experience working with younger learners.

I live in Sydals and can deliver technical teaching independently in English. I passed UCplus's Danish 3.3 exam and am preparing for 3.4, but cannot yet teach technical subjects independently in Danish. I would welcome a discussion about whether an initial teaching arrangement in English is possible. I am willing to complete the required pedagogical diploma within four years of appointment and would welcome the opportunity to discuss my contribution to EUC Syd.

Yours sincerely,
Stefan Busch
